SCENE AT THE CROKER DINNER

of the silversmith's art. Eagle feathers and other Indian ornamental devices are enamelled in colors, A SIGNIFICANT REMARK.

It is reasonable to suppose that all this tribute was given to a purely private citizen, as Mr. Grady suggested and dwelt upon, while John C. Sheehan smiled behind his mustache and Mr. Croker critically examined the frescoing, as though speculating upon the chances of a successful contradiction at some time in the near future. Yet what Mr. Grady said in another place was rather significant—that "honor should be reflected upon an organization of which he is the head."

The crowd simply dissolved with joy over this statement, as though it was brand-new informatime, good government—yes, honest government by the plain people of this country. It stands for the cause of the wage-earner and the toller and is the champion of the oppressed of all lands. For more than a century Tan nany Hall has proved failthful and steadfast to Democracy. In all the great political events that have occurred in the history of our RestNic its sons have always stood in the van, fighting the battle of the people. Among the great names inscribed upon our country's roll of honer will be found those of many of her followers. When we read of the acts of those great Democratic leaders we are proud of their efforts and we admire their patriotism. The impartial historian in recording the work of the leaders of our party will detract nothing from those who have gone before by placing in the front rank of those generals who have so often led us to victory the name of "Our Guest," Richard Croker, and I ask a gentleman whose respond to that toast—the Hon. Thomas F. Grady, (Applause.)

SOME OF THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

In the first place, the evident discrimination shown was commented upon with varying degrees

In the second place, some of the old timers re-marked that Tammany was losing her pristine simplicity of custom in reaching into the realm of the "crowned heads" to give her dinners.

In the third place, it was remarked that Peter F. Meyer did not have his dress suit on, and that he therefore did not int nd to sit down with the "boys" in henor of his old-time partner. In point of fact he did not sit down to dinner, but hung about on the outside to see that no offending hand raised a curtain to peer into the sacred precincts.

The hour fixed for the dinner was half-past 7 o'clock, but it was not until nearly 8 that the trail was taken up for the banqueting hall, where so much of love and affection was to be displayed later on, due reservation, however, in certain welldefined and well-understood directions where knives were known to linger in concealed pockets. Once at table the din of the orchestra was discontinued. The guests were scated in this order: John C. Sheehan, Thomas F. Grady, Hugh J. Grant, Frederick Smyth. Jacob A. Canter, Nathan Straus and James J. Martin. On the left hand of the chairman was Richard Croker, Roswell P. Flower, John R. Fellows, Thomas F. Gilroy, Amos J. Cummings, Henry D. Purroy and Augustus W. Peters.

The decorations were quite elaborate, consisting length of the tables, and paims and ferns variously and effectively disposed, the guests at the head table sitting under a veritable canopy of paims. The decorations cost $500.

THE FLOW OF SOUL

It was not until 10 o'clock that the flow of soul succeeded the more material part of this select "event," and there were only four toasts indicated on the menu card. These were: "Our Guest," Thomas F. Grady; "Our Country." Amas J. Cummings; "Our State and City." J. A. Centor, and "Tammany Hall," John R. Fellows. But these and formally preceded by the address of the presiding genius, John C. Sheehan. The toastruster Nei visibly ill at ease for some reason, and his ready tongue faltered over Sheenan. The toastaste aster of the written words. He said:

Gentlemen: The occasion which brings us together this written words. He said:

Gentlemen: The occasion which brings us together this evening is one of tousual interest. It is, I believe, the first time that all the members of the Executive Committee, and other prominent members of the organization, who represent the Democratic party of this county, have met at a purely social gathering. We have not to-might to extend a cordial greeting to a gentleman who is near and dear to all of us, a sincere friend, a safe and wise commellor, the sagacious and able leader of men-Richard Croker. (Cheers.)

It is a pleasure to welcome him here to-night and to bear witness that our affection and admiration for the unconquered leader of Tammany Hail are in no way diminished because we see less of him than formerly. I know I speak the sentiment which is appermost in the hearts of those present when I say that we rejoice to have him with us. In person, it may only be for a few days, but in the journey he is about to take, no matter to what part of the globe, we wish him godspeed and a safe return, and we know what he will find no friends more steadfast or more loyal than those who sit around him to-night, and none who would follow his guidance with more devotion or greater zeal. (Applause.)

They are the Old Guard of Tammany Hail, who die. him to-night, and none who would follow his guid-ance with more devotion or greater zeal, (Applause.) They are the Old Guard of Tammany Hall, who die, but never surrender. (Applause.) Over one hundred years ago the fathers of the Democratic party founded Tammany Hall. The motto it adopted, "Civil Liberty, the Glory of Man," proclaimed its purpose and its object. (Applause.) It stands to-day representing, as it did at that

tion, the existence of which as fact prior to the ab- | and affection of all the sons of Tammany. The speaker was cheered as the little glant of Tammany Hall, and he received the demonstration with closed the formal part of his address Mr. Grady turned and received from a servitor the gargeon emblem of love and affection which will hereaft adorn the Croker mansion, and grasping it firm by the handle held it far from him, while he turns and placed it in the centre of the table, there to admired. Then he made the presentation.

MR. CROKER'S RESPONSE. In responding to the splendid memorial of his re-

Croker had this speech prepared, but departed from it, as already told:

struggles are well aware that I always attribute the success of the organization with which we have been so long identified not to my individual endeavors, but to your loyaity and truth, and to the unity and cohesion which marked your efforts to promote the prosperity and glory of Tammany Hall, and of the masses who were faithful to the doctrines of true themocrasy. (Applause.) There are many here who were my comrades in my boyhood days, and who have travelled life's path with me to the present time. They will, I am sure, hear testimony, to those of you who have not known me so long, to the sincerity of my works. (Applause.)

The principles which dominated your actions in the councils of the organization were practised among your associates in the districts of which you were the selected and recognized political lenders, thus maintaining a unification and harmony in purpose among the masses of our associates in the dispersion of the organization which practically makes it unconquerable. (Cheers.)

pose among the masses of our associates in the ganization which practically makes it unconquerable. (Cheers.)

Now let me persuade and entreat you to a continuance of that cohesion, that truth, that loyalty and that unity among yourselves at all times and under all circumstances. Let not fell designs enter your councils: have tut a single purpose, "the advancement of our great lemocratic organization," and I prophesy for you greater success, greater honer and greater glory than was ever thought of in the past. (Loud cheers.)

This heautiful and indestructible memento of your affection is so prized by me that I am inadequate to the task of forming words to express the full measure of my appreciation of your attachment. It will be jealously guarded by me during my life, and when I pass away it will be preserved by my children as the most prized bequest from their father. It will be to them as a manifestation of the esteem in which their father was held, and I am sure that my children will treasure it as evidence of that generous friendship of which I am most proud. (Applause.)

Le carefur with you, from the depths of my heart

(Applause) with you, from the depths of my heart.
In parting with you, from the depths of my heart.
I extend to one and all of those who are present, and to the Democrats of this imperial city with whom I was associated in the great strungles of the past, the hope and fervent wish that their future may abound is accord, prosperity and happiness.

When the unpleasant details at the beginning of this article had been closed, so to speak, Amos J. Cummings replied to the toast of "Cur Country," declaring Tammany Hall to be the home rule organization of this country. Jacob A. Cantor followed, speaking to "Our State and City," and at midnight John R. Fellows was regaling the assembly with a word picture of Tammany Hall.

OLD OFFICIALS RETIRED.

ACTION OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE TRAVELLERS INSURANCE COMPANY.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 3.-The directors of the Travellers' Insurance Company, at the adjourned meeting to-night, decided to retire Vice-President Gustavus F. Davis and Secretary Rodney Dennis, and voted unanimously to declare those offices vaistant secretary. The action to-night was taken directors appointed a week ago. This committee reported that an active vice-president should be selected whose entire time and energies will be devoted to the company's interest, and that, "owing to circumstances which are beyond our control" the office of secretary should also be made vacant by the retirement of the present incumbent.

Vice-President Davis and Secretary Dennis, who from to-slight cease to be officers of the company, have occupied those respective positions since the organization of the company, thirty-three years ago.

Governor Thornton, of New Mexico, together with Sheriff Escurate, of Las Cruces, and Deputies Casey and Gonzales, came in on last night's train. Governor Thornton said: "I nivised Escarate not to come to El Paso, because I did not believe there would be any attempt to bring off the fight in New-Mexico, and also because the signing of the bill would take the matter out of the hands of the New-Mexicon authorities entirely.

'I instructed him that as soon as the bill should be signed ine must wash his hands of the whole basinose. The signing of the bill will relieve the Territorial authorities of all responsibility, and place it upon the Federal officers. Escarate and his deputies will go home as soon as they know that the bill is signed. I feel much relieved by this action of Concress. Personally I do not care whether they have a fight or not, and there being no low in New Mexico against prize-fighting. I should not have fell orliged to use any extraordinary efforts to stop it. The opposition papers, however, by diffusently circulating the false report that I had been urined to shut my eyes, compelled me to take more notices of it than the law itself did.

ATHLETES CONTEST IN BOSTON. THE INDOOR MEET OF THE B. A. A. A GREAT

Boston, Feb. 8 (Special) - Fully 6,000 people saw he greatest indoor athletic meet ever held in New England to-night in the Mechanics' Building, Al-England to-night in the Mechanics' Building, Although there were many champions entered, they did little, most of them being out of condition. Orion, University of Pennsylvania, was in the best possible condition, and he was one of the stars of the night. Klipatrick was in poor form, and hardly tried to go through his field. Conneff kept out of everything except the mile run. Harvard, as usual, won nearly all the contests in which she entered. The Boston Athletic Association came in for a large share of prizes. It was a peculiar thing to a large share of prizes. It was a peculiar thing to see no Yale men in competition, with the exception of the train race. Heretofore the light blue has had done no of starters. Princeton and Pennsylvania sent a big squad of web-trained athletes, and the lack of Vale men was overlooked. There were 101 start-Yale men was overlooked. There were 101 start ers in the forty-yard sprint novice, and even the fourteen trial heats were interesting. Two men None of the finals were better than five seconds. In the forty-yard handleap 123 men contested. The short distance was too much for the handicapped men. Every one of the eighteen trial heats, except two, were run in 4.45 seconds, which showed the exprions handicapping. The two-mile invitation race was expected to be a great thing, and it was really interesting, because Eddie Hjertberg and Orton fought it out. The latter showed great strength in the final spurt and beat his Jersey opponent by twenty-five yards. C. H. Bean, the chart tion three-miler, was not in form, and dropped out, and Conneff did not start. The time was very good. Champion Kilpatrick, of Union College, could not

W. K. VANDERBILT OFF ON A CRUISE.

HE SAILS ON THE VALIANT FROM PORT ROYAL-NOT EXPECTED BACK FOR A YEAR,

William K. Vanderbilt has departed upon cruise in Mediterranean waters. Since Mr. Vander-bilt's yacht, the Vallant, dropped anchor in the North River a few months ago several things have prevented his departure on his proposed trip. First came the marriage of his daughter, Consuelo, to the Duke of Marlborough, and then the marriage of Mrs. Vanderbilt to O. H. P. Belment. Lately there

Mrs. Vanderbillt to O. H. P. Belmont. Lately there has been much talk about W. K. Vanderbilt's marrying again, but his reported intention to do so is denied by all members of his family.

Mr. Vanderbilt's yacht sailed from Port Royal yesterlay and headed for the coast of Spain. In his party were Louis Webb, Wimfield Scott Hoyst and Mr. Lawrence. Mr. Vanderbilt had no definite idea as to when he would return from abroad. He intends to go to Egypt and then back to France, but beyond that he has no plans.

A friend of the family said yesterday that William K. Vanderbilt was perfectly satisfied that his children were in good hands, and would make no effort to recover them, as had been reported. It is thought that he will not return to this country for at least / 4 year.
